

Finite size corrections for kinetically constrained models

T. Bodineau

Kinetically constrained models have been introduced as models for glass formers. We will review the large deviations of the activity in these models and the first order phase transition which occurs as a consequence of the dynamical constraints. We will then discuss the finite size scaling of these models and the phase coexistence between an active and an inactive space-time phase.